Grace Foods UK Limited's Statement on Covid-19 (Update #2)

We hope this update finds you well. We also hope that your families, friends and colleagues are keeping safe.

Earlier in March, we had shared our statement to let the public know what we have been doing during these unprecedented times.

As the UK Government plans and sets guidelines to gradually ease lockdowns throughout the country, we continue to be committed to the health and safety of our employees while ensuring continuity in our business. We've conducted a risk assessment of our business and ensured compliance for applicable areas based on the recently published Government workplace guidelines.

In addition, over the coming weeks, we aim to start re-engaging on-site visits with our customers as well as welcoming guests on a limited basis to our head office. Our teams have been sensitized with best practices for engagement such as respecting social distancing measures and not conducting physical interactions such as handshaking. We have also prepared our offices to ensure social distancing guidelines can be met and best hygiene practices can be adhered to; these preparations include relevant signage across the building, limiting number of people into meeting rooms and gathering spaces such as lunch rooms and hand sanitizers placed in relevant parts of the building.

We continue to work diligently with our suppliers to ascertain any supply chain risk relating to Covid-19 and taking contingency measures where practicable.

We will keep monitoring the situation as well as Government announcements and will take the necessary steps to protect our work force and ensure business continuity while maintaining supply to our valued customers.

We'd like to thank you for your support and look forward to continuing to serve you.
